To gently teach the truth of loving, In he homes where he is sent.

How very sad and lonely, dreary.
Would be each high and lowly home
If for years and years no buby
To this world would ever come. Yet he comes and takes the homage

Loving hearts and hands do give: And while loving him we're learning What it is for love to live. We would grow so cold and solfish

If no practiling your we'd hear.

THE FARMING WORLD.

FRUIT TREE LABELS. Matter of More Importance Than Mos Fruit Growers Think.

It has been many years since we pub-ished a description of a very simple label for marking the name of a bearing fruit tree, consisting of a small strip of sheet zine a few inches long, name written with a common lead pencil on one end, and the other end coiled round a side branch of the tree. The zine being slightly rusted will take the pencil mark very distinctly, and will last half a century exposed to the weather. Yet notwithstanding the cheapness and completeness of this label, it does not appear to have been known or adopted by writers on orcharding, either in Europe or in this ountry. English and American jour-uals frequently describe more complete and less durable labels, and among panying cut, Fig. 1. It consists of two parts the copper wire-loop, around which the zine or other metal is colled, while the loop passing ground the side limb holds it to the form the wire is more ant to ent the than the broad strip in Fig. 2. Being blown about by the wind, the copper wire often cracks off in a few years. One of these compound labels may be easily made into a simple one by taking out and throwing aside the copper wire, and instead of coiling the flat portion of the label around the coppe wire, to coil it at once around the side branch, as shown in Fig. 2. Another advantage which the form has, which something of an automaton character. by gradualy uncoiling from the branch with the increase in growth.

A Useful Implement That Can Be Made for a Few Pollars. Funny, isn't it? that an implement costing so little and so easily made and effective should be neglected by ninetenths of farmers. It is nothing but three poles from the woods, each six to eight feet long and four to six inches in diameter at the butt, with bits of the tops placed between to hold them apart as the long bolts, running through the whole, are screwed tight. These bolts are the only part of the implement that costs. The chain? Any log chain will answer. It is best to draw it a little "catering," so it will have a slightly shaving action on the sods. The husband, raising his voice to a high pitch, said: "This ends all relations between us."

"Go," said the wife, "I do not care now, for our home is only in name." Suddenly there burst upon the night the strains of "Home, Sweet Home," It was the muste of an orchestra that had ust then begun a serenade to a resident near by. It seems that the company of musicians had been inspired, for the piece was never rendered any better than it was that night. The husband and wife ceased quarrel-ing, and both stood as if rooted to the spot. The effect upon them could be seen at a glance. Both were weeping. There was a brief but terrific struggle between duty and pride. The husband glanced at the wife in a pitiful sort of way, and his look was returned. As the strains of the great song were dying away, they rushed into each other's arms. The love of former years was then and there renewed.

But do not use the dangerous alkaline and mercurial preparations which destroy your nervous system and ruin the digestive power of the stomach. The vegetable king-dom gives us the best and safest remedial agents. Dr. Sherman devoted the greater part of his life to the discovery of this relia ble and safe remedy, and all its ingredients are vegetable. . He gave it the name of Prickly Ash Bitters!

a name every one can remember, and to the present day nothing has been discovered that is so beneficial for the BLOOD, for the LIVER, for the KIDNEYS and for the STOMACH. This remedy is now so well it that arguments as to its merits are useless, and if others who require a correct ive to the system would but give it a trial the health of this country would be vastly improved. Remember the name—PRICKLY ASH BITTERS. Ask your druggist for it.

PURIFY YOUR TUILS P

ANTI-BILIOUS MEDICINE. In malarial districts their virtues are uidely recognized, as they possess pec-uliar properties in freeing the system from that poison. Elegantly sugar coated. Dose small. Price, 25cts.
